

Whistleblower Protection Information for Whistleblowers

Adhering to legal regulations is a high priority for us. To counteract developments going in the wrong direction, it is important to detect violations early in order to initiate countermeasures and prevent possible damage to employees, customers, suppliers, service providers, and the company.

Our reporting office is intended to give you the opportunity to report violations of legal regulations and thus contribute to their exposure.

Please provide us with information relating to criminal offenses, offenses subject to fines (as far as they protect life, body, or health or the rights of employees or their representative bodies), and other violations of important legal regulations (scope of application), such as:

- Data protection and security of network and information systems
- Financial services and products, money laundering, terrorism
- Consumer protection
- Public health
- Public procurement
- Product safety
- Food safety
- Procurement
- Testing and approval procedures

In the event that you have concrete, substantiated indications of serious legal violations or rule breaches in our company, or suspect such, we have commissioned a knowledgeable and reliable service provider as a reporting channel:
